

Below is a screen shot of a page from the website of the Global Fund for Women stating their objective to protect “advance sexual and reproductive rights.” The relevant text is highlighted in yellow to make it easier to see. To access this page online, click here and then click on “GFW grantees ADVANCE SEXUAL AND REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS” at the bottom of the page.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL www.globalfundforwomen.org/what-we-do/health-a-sexual-rights. The page content includes a teal header with the text: "GFW grantees ADVANCE WOMEN'S HEALTH by ensuring that women have access to quality health care at all stages of their lives. Here are some of the ways they do this »". Below this is a section titled "GFW grantees ADVANCE SEXUAL AND REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS by working to »" with a list of eight bullet points. The following text is highlighted in yellow: "Explore sexual identity and work to change the cultural and political debate on sexual orientation and gender identity, challenging both conservative elements of society and mainstream women's movements.", "Address notions of femininity and masculinity and their cultural and physical expression in society.", "Build alliances between the women's and LGBTQ rights' movements to oppose sexual oppression by governments and religious institutions.", and "Support sexual minorities' right to freedom of sexual expression in the face of formidable challenges from the church, state and even factions within the women's movement." A "« Show Less" link is located below the list. The footer contains the copyright notice "© 2010 Global Fund for Women" and navigation links for "Frequently Asked Questions", "Jobs", "Contact", "Site Map", "Privacy Policy", and "RSS".

www.globalfundforwomen.org/what-we-do/health-a-sexual-rights

GFW grantees ADVANCE WOMEN'S HEALTH by ensuring that women have access to quality health care at all stages of their lives. Here are some of the ways they do this »

GFW grantees ADVANCE SEXUAL AND REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS by working to »

- » Educate women and girls on the full range of contraceptives available and how to use them safely.
- » Ensure that respect, protection, and fulfillment of women's reproductive rights is policy and the law.
- » Explore sexual identity and work to change the cultural and political debate on sexual orientation and gender identity, challenging both conservative elements of society and mainstream women's movements.
- » Address notions of femininity and masculinity and their cultural and physical expression in society.
- » Make connections between HIV/AIDS and gender-based violence.
- » Protect women's right to reproductive choice. Work to decriminalize and expand access to safe abortion.
- » Build alliances between the women's and LGBTQ rights' movements to oppose sexual oppression by governments and religious institutions.
- » Support sexual minorities' right to freedom of sexual expression in the face of formidable challenges from the church, state and even factions within the women's movement.

« Show Less

© 2010 Global Fund for Women Frequently Asked Questions Jobs Contact Site Map Privacy Policy RSS