

Below is a screen shot of a page on the kidshealth.org website that refers girls to Planned Parenthood in their teen section. The relevant text has been highlighted in yellow to make it easier to see. The page can be accessed online here.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL kidshealth.org/teen/expert/sex\_health/planb\_cost.html. The page features a navigation bar with 'TeensHealth from Nemours' and tabs for 'For Parents', 'For Kids', and 'For Teens'. A left sidebar contains a search bar and a menu of topics including 'Teens Home', 'Your Body', 'Your Mind', 'Sexual Health', 'Food & Fitness', 'Recipes', 'Drugs & Alcohol', 'Expert Answers', 'Diseases & Conditions', 'Infections', 'School & Jobs', 'Staying Safe', and 'En Español'. The main content area is titled 'Expert Answers on...' and features a green speech bubble. The article title is 'What If We Can't Afford Plan B?'. The text of the article includes a quote from 'Julio*' and a response that states: 'It's frustrating when you take all the right precautions and things still go wrong. It might help to check with your local health clinic, like Planned Parenthood, or with an STD clinic. They may provide Plan B at a lower cost than drugstores, and some may even offer it for free. Ask for payment options, and let them know your situation.' Below this, a general note says: 'All couples who have sex should be tested for STDs, but this is especially true if a condom has broken (or if a couple doesn't use a condom).' The article is reviewed by Larissa Hirsch, MD, and dated January 2010. On the right side, there is a 'Partner Message' banner for 'What's your babysitting style?' with a 'Take Our Quizzes!' button and the 'TeensHealth from Nemours' logo.
