GFW grantees ADVANCE WOMEN'S HEALTH by ensuring that women have access to quality health care at all stages of their lives. Here are some of the ways they do this »

GFW grantees ADVANCE SEXUAL AND REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS by working to »

- » Educate women and girls on the full range of contraceptives available and how to use them safely.
- » Ensure that respect, protection, and fulfillment of women's reproductive rights is policy and the law.
- » Explore sexual identity and work to change the cultural and political debate on sexual orientation and gender identity, challenging both conservative elements of society and mainstream women's movements.
- » Address notions of femininity and masculinity and their cultural and physical expression in society.
- » Make connections between HIV/AIDS and gender-based violence.
- » Protect women's right to reproductive choice. Work to decriminalize and expand access to safe abortion.
- » Build alliances between the women's and LGBTQ rights' movements to oppose sexual oppression by governments and religious institutions.
- » Support sexual minorities' right to freedom of sexual expression in the face of formidable challenges from the church, state and even factions within the women's movement.
